AIM Update!

October 10th, 2014

Frost on the lawn got you down? Well, the dropping mosquito population should surely cheer you up! Enjoy sunny cool days as we look to a “short” week next week!

- MEA BREAK is coming up! No school for staff and students on October 16th and 17th.
- OPEN HOUSE for prospective students/families and community members. STUDENTS... consider helping us out the evening of Nov. 6th from 6-8pm. You could even stay after AIM... hang out... eat some dinner... help set up and then catch a ride home from a parent or carpool.
- STUDENTS (again): Not feeling well? If you are sick... stay home and rest up! Use your best judgement when deciding to come to AIM if you are sick. When in doubt... talk to a parent/guardian or give a case manager a call.
- INTERNET - TECH - EMAIL USE: Students are doing a GREAT job of checking with AIM staff first before they use technology at AIM. Thank you! Also, students, please remember your AIM email is for related AIM use only. You all know what I mean... thank you!!!
- “I ain’t afraid of no ghost!” (Again) Well, ok...maybe I am. This probably goes without saying... as Halloween approaches, Lionsgate Academy does not allow masks and/or prop weapons etc. for Halloween. Just keep in mind we’re keeping a professional atmosphere at AIM. Thanks!
- WELCOME to Lindsey Wolfe! She is the vocational rehabilitation counselor that serves students/families in Ramsey, Washington and Dakota County. She visited us for the first time today and we’ll look forward to regular visits from her in the future!
- Anti-Bully month: This month is anti-bully month! Thanks to Jeffrey Osterhout (school psych) for providing all sorts of resources on this AND enthusiasm!

AIM Update!

Did you know???

- TODAY is national angel food cake day AND Monday is national train your brain day! Not sure why... ask me on Monday.
- MEA (as in the break) stands for Minnesota Education Association. Too obvious?

Need something to do??? Check out Lumosity! It's a great app!
